

2022 Hesperian Cabernet Sauvignon

Kitoko Vineyard
Atlas Peak, Napa Valley

Description

This wine is a barrel selection of the most elegant and concentrated lots to create a powerful wine. The wine is made from the blend of 4 blocks of the Kitoko Vineyard harvested in separate passes: 35.7% North Face, 28.6% Bay View, 21.5% Finger and 14.2% Gatos.

Vineyard

Kitoko Vineyard, named for the Congolese Lingala word for “beautiful,” is a 14.2-acre vineyard high on Atlas Peak, planted to Cabernet Sauvignon in 2000 and 2003. The soils here are incredibly rocky, dry, and poor, quite like Pritchard Hill to the north, studded with fractured andesite rock and boulders. The proximity to the San Pablo Bay brings persistent winds, which along with the heat and arid soil, cause the set of very small berries and loose bunches, and consistently delay ripening each year.

Harvest

Bud break started a month earlier than usual, early March. The weather was warmer than past vintages. Heat waves beginning and late June accelerated ripening. A very strong heat wave hit the valley early September. Luckily the top temperature up at the vineyard was 104F versus 116F in the valley floor. Harvest started September 15 and ended October 6.
